Re Item V

Reasoned statement with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

- D1: WO 97/12118, discloses a method for increasing oil recovery from an oil reservoir in which method gas is injected into the reservoir, comprising the steps · of:
 - separation of air into an oxygen-rich fraction and a nitrogen-rich fraction (see page 12, line 16),
 - providing a natural gas stream and leading the natural gas stream and at least part of the oxygen-rich fraction to a reformer 2 for conversion to synthesis gas mainly comprising H2, CO, CO2 and lower amounts of non-converted methane, water vapour and nitrogen (see table 1),
 - formation of higher hydrocarbons from the synthesis gas in a synthesis gas unit (see table 3)

The problem may be regarded as how to reduce the surface tension between gas and oil, and thus to contribute to both increased recovery and stabilisation of the

This problem is solved in the known method through the distinguishing features of claim 1, where waste gas and nitrogen-rich gas are injected into the oil reservoir. The prior art, D1, does not disclose the injection of nitrogen into the reservoir to enhance recovery.

The same problem and solution approach applies for the corresponding apparatus claim 4 which includes the same distinguishing features.

Since said distinguishing features are neither known nor suggested by the prior art documents the subject-matter of claims 1 and 4 meets the requirements of Art. 33(2)-(4) PCT.

- The applicant should have taken into account the following points: 2)
- Two patents shall not be granted to the same applicant, designating the same 1. States for one invention (PG-III, 11.10).
